

**Gulf Breeze: Oil Spill Update****

May 18, 2010

72 Hour Forecast: No Oil Expected

According to Secretary Sole, who has met with NOAA representatives, there will be no oil landfall in the Florida Panhandle area over the next week

- Staff monitored State Emergency Operations conference call: no significant developments or changes in the position or nature of the spill
- Following the lead of state emergency response agencies, we will begin sending updates on a weekly basis instead of daily. These weekly updates will continue until more status updates are necessary
